Badge Chatter

Greetings from the cataloguer! This issue I have heard from Marc Couturier and Mike Assef regarding new finds.

This issue we have three new finds from the past.

The National Deep Sea Scout listing clarification is long overdue. Deep Sea Scouts on a single line on a strip was the first I ever received and many in the club have that version. And of course the originally listed one is around as well. Here are both. It seems apparent there are some slight variations in size and style of lettering but until we have more information we are keeping the listings simple.

The Manitoba Portage la Prairie P3 is essentially a clarification and expansion of previous listings to acknowledge the differences in the single trees vs clumped trees in some of the varieties as well as the presence of thwarts. The following picture shows the P3C, P3D and P3E side by side to exemplify the differences between them in terms of trees, grass (or no grass) and thwarts!

I think the new Peterborough listing is straightforward so will not be showing comparative images.

I can't help but notice the popularity of North West Territories badges at the moment. But do we all have authentic original badges in our collection? The following images are of Great Slave Lake. The original during the existence of the district had a mesh back (shown on left below). The one produced, I am told as a fundraiser, later (on the right) had almost a bubble-like and shiny back. The backs of the badges are easily distinguishable (see below) but the fronts not so different. (By the way, some other districts out of Northern Region also were produced later with similar backs-Lesser Slave Lake (L1) is a case in point.)

Here is a close up of the back of the shiny “bubble-like” back.

The original Great Slave Lake badge is on the left, above. Not much difference, as expected, since they were both produced, although at different times, by Northern Region (I am told).

Mike Assef has turned up an Alberta Sunshine Ribbon (S10A-ish) that is much smaller than the listed one. It was not used on a uniform, albeit wrinkled and such, but the bottom line is the small size is probably correct. This said, none of the Regional Reps nor anyone else I have asked has one. So, wondering if anyone else does, especially if new. If so, a listing might well be on the horizon. Please let me know.

Let me close with a little contest for the newer members. What badge is based upon this structure?

Now another!

Contact me direct and the first new, young member with the correct answer will get the badges! And if anyone wants to improve their swaps send me up to 10 different badges (district preferred) and I will send you 10 others back.

I thank all who bring new badges or badge questions to my attention. Keep it up! Please contact me with your finds or answers to questions at: ennisgl@telus.net.

I want to once again thank the Club's Regional Reps; Michael Diegel, Chris Wootton, Steve Kavanagh, Robert Schmitt, Don Connors, Rheal Duchesne and Frank Smith.
